

<http://www.cgisd.rutgers.edu/gpact.shtml>

Learn what it takes to make a difference!

From the first day, you will be grouped in multi-ethnic-religious-linguistic teams, each of which will identify a real social problem for which you will provide an action plan by the end of the course. You will practice cross-cultural skills as you tackle the issues that you rarely deal with inside a classroom!

Global PACT Is:

- Global experiences that prove you can make a difference
- Teams of youth working for change
- Youth inspiring and training others to make a difference
- Connecting with a world-wide network of change makers

The Details

- June 25 - July 23
- Costs are supported by Rhodes University
- 45 Students from the USA, Japan & South Africa

Qualifications:

You don't need international affairs or NGO experience. Come and learn the skills necessary for working in groups to create real change!

Application Process:

Contact Professor Marius Vermaak M.Vermaak@ru.ac.za

Once trained, you will cement your knowledge by running your organizations and teaching others what you've learned, beginning the cycle anew. Formerly students, now citizen-activists and teachers, you are linked in a network of like-minded citizen-activists who help, support, and encourage each other. The idea is simple: learn, do, teach. That's how Global PACT builds partnerships with young adults locally, regionally and globally to foster activism, civic engagement, good citizenship and youth leadership.

American Contact: Mr. Paul Kuehn, Executive Director
+1 (732) 763-9384 or global.pact@gmail.com

THE STATE UNIVERSITY OF NEW JERSEY
RUTGERS