

MASTER'S DEGREE IN COMMERCE (TAXATION)

COURSE OUTLINE

INTRODUCTION

The Master in Commerce (Taxation) programme is designed to be flexible and therefore suitable for candidates who are employed or in business and who wish to further their studies. It is presented as a part-time, not in attendance course, although in-person supervision meetings can be arranged. All the study material is provided online, and assignments and the thesis are reviewed online.

DURATION OF THE DEGREE

The normal duration of the degree is two years, with some candidates taking as long as three years, particularly when they are also in employment. Assignments have due dates according to a work programme set up by the candidates themselves. The coursework examination that is written at the end of the coursework component is written on demand. This open-book exam can be written at any venue, provided the candidate can identify an invigilator. Candidates set their own pace with the thesis of limited scope.

Candidates are required to RE-REGISTER ANNUALLY and pay their study fees. Registration for the degree is limited to three years. An application can be made to the Registrar to extend this period, but a study period longer than three years is subject to the payment of a higher annual fee.

COURSE CONTENTS

The course consists of the following components, with a weighting as set out below:

Coursework component	40%
Examination	10%
Thesis of limited scope	50%

---

■ THE COURSE-WORK COMPONENT

The coursework components comprise assignments and an examination.

ASSIGNMENTS

The coursework component comprises eight self-study modules on South African taxation, with the ninth assignment dealing with research methodology. Each module includes an assignment (to be found on the last page). There are therefore NINE assignments to be submitted.

Candidates submit their own work programme each year, stipulating the dates on which assignments, topic statements for their thesis, research proposals, and the thesis will be submitted. Candidates who are not in employment (that is, studying full-time) should aim to submit assignments monthly, but part-time candidates may take longer.

SELF-STUDY

In addition to studying the modules, as holding a master's degree qualification assumes that you have an in-depth knowledge of all aspects of taxation, candidates are expected to study the taxation principles relating to the following topics:

- capital allowances and capital gains tax
- companies and the corporate rules
- deceased and insolvent estates
- dividends and dividends tax
- donations tax
- employees' tax and provisional tax
- estate duty and estate planning
- foreign exchange
- foreign income of residents
- special inclusions in gross income
- individuals, including the taxation of spouses and partnerships
- interest
- investors versus share dealers
- leasing
- non-residents
- other section 11 deductions
- retirement benefits
- trading stock and temporary differences
- trusts
- Value-Added Tax

Any standard textbook can be used for this self-study, for example:

Haupt, P. (Latest edition) Notes on South African Income Tax. Roggebaai, Cape: H & H Publications

Stiglingh, M. et al. (Latest edition) SILKE: South African Income Tax. Durban: LexisNexis

Aspects of these additional topics WILL BE TESTED IN THE FINAL COURSEWORK EXAMINATION.

OTHER MATERIAL

In addition to the modules, a RESOURCE KIT is made available, which contains various guidelines, including referencing guidelines that are essential reading from the outset, as these referencing methods must be used for all assignments. A RESEARCH METHODOLOGY MODULE on conducting research, and other related documents, are part of the study material for the ninth module. These documents provide guidelines on doing research in general and research in the field of taxation. Presentations on research methodology may be scheduled, but failing this, candidates need to study the module on their own.

MODULE DESCRIPTIONS

1. Income tax – aspects of the “gross income” definition: total amount, in cash or otherwise, received by or accrued to or in favour of a taxpayer.

2. Income tax – further aspects of the “gross income” definition: the distinction between capital and revenue receipts.
3. Income tax – further aspects of the “gross income” definition: the source of income – international and local transactions.
4. Income tax – aspects of the “general deduction formula”: expenditure and losses actually incurred in carrying on a trade, in the production of income.
5. Income tax – further aspects of “the general deduction formula”: the distinction between capital and non-capital expenditure.
6. Employment benefits.
7. Tax planning and anti-avoidance measures.
8. The Tax Administration Act.
9. Research Methodology.

Please Note: The modules are not updated each year and it is incumbent upon you, as senior students, to keep your reading of tax cases up to date. References to SILKE (see below for a full reference) may be out of date, but using the index, you will be able to find the relevant material.

SUBMISSION OF ASSIGNMENTS ON THE MODULES

The assignment questions are found on the last page of each module. Answers to assignments one to eight are based mainly on the interpretation of the taxation acts and related court decisions, in the context of the tax problem to be addressed. Assignment 9 deals with research methodology. Typically, assignments are about 20 – 25 typed pages in length (one-and-a-half spacing) and must be accompanied by a full reference list. Included in the RESOURCE KIT is the assessment matrix used to assess assignments. This provides guidance on what is expected in an assignment. PLEASE REFER TO THIS MATRIX.

Assignments processed using Word must be submitted as e-mail attachments to:

e.stack@ru.ac.za

Assignments will be assessed as soon as possible after receipt and suggested solutions provided.

TECHNICAL ASPECTS OF ASSIGNMENTS

Assignments are part of the learning process toward the thesis to be submitted in the second half of the programme. For this reason, standards of language and grammar are expected to be impeccable. Only “academic register” is acceptable, and colloquialisms and tax “jargon” will be penalized. Full and accurate referencing is required (refer to the RESOURCE KIT).

RECOMMENDED TEXTBOOKS AND OTHER RESOURCES

De Koker, A. (updated annually) Silke On South African Income Tax. Durban: Lexis-Nexis Butterworths

Kruger and Scholz. (Latest edition) Tax Strategy. Durban: Lexis-Nexis Butterworths

Williams, R.C. (Latest Edition) Income Tax in South Africa: Law and Practice. Durban: Lexis-Nexis Butterworths.

Williams, R.C. (Latest Edition) Income Tax in South Africa: Cases and Materials. Durban: Lexis-Nexis Butterworths.

} Out of print but still very useful

An up-to-date copy of the taxation acts.

---

■ EXAMINATIONS

Two three-hour papers (with 15 minutes of reading time per paper) are written at the end of the coursework component. The papers consist of two essay questions per paper (out of a possible three questions). The questions mainly cover topics dealt with in modules (except Module 9), but may also test general tax provisions and principles. The exam is an open-book exam.

The examinations are written “on demand” when candidates feel that they are suitably prepared to do so, but preferably as soon as possible after completing the assignments. It is possible to arrange to sit the examinations outside the university, provided an invigilator is available and prepared to undertake this task.

---

■ COMPLETION OF COURSEWORK

The course work component – assignments and the examination – must be completed and a sub-minimum mark of 50% obtained BEFORE you may submit the thesis for examination. However, you can work simultaneously on both components.

---

■ THESIS OF LIMITED SCOPE

The detailed requirements for the thesis are set out in the Rhodes University HIGHER DEGREES GUIDE, which is sent to each master’s degree candidate with the confirmation of registration and is also available on the Registrar’s web page. It should be noted that the maximum length of the thesis is 30 000 words.

The RESEARCH PROCESS is as follows:

Candidates are expected to be familiar with the techniques and methods of research; in addition to the RESEARCH METHODOLOGY MODULE referred to above, the supervisor may recommend other readings relevant to the specific methodology to be used in the research.

Candidates identify a possible topic or area for research and propose a provisional title. Initially, the candidate informs the supervisor by email of the topic he or she is interested in, together with a brief note on how he or she plans to deal with the topic. Once the supervisor has provisionally agreed to the topic, a TOPIC STATEMENT is submitted to the supervisor for approval.

A formal RESEARCH PROPOSAL is written in the format set out on the COMMERCE FACULTY WEB PAGE. A template for this purpose will be provided by the Department or can be accessed on the web page. The Research Proposal is subject to the recommendation for approval by the Head of the Department and is submitted to the Higher Degrees Committee of the Faculty of Commerce for approval and for the confirmation of the appointment of a supervisor(s) at periodic meetings of the committee.

A RESEARCH PROPOSAL has two main aims:

- to guide the researcher in carrying out the research: it is, essentially, a detailed research plan;
- to communicate the research plan to others (the evaluators) and to convince readers of the proposal that the research is meaningful and will contribute, however modestly, to the body of academic knowledge, that the researcher understands and is able to apply the tools and techniques of research, is able to work independently, and that ethical concerns will be addressed.

Candidates carry out the research and write the thesis, under the guidance of the supervisor and a co-supervisor, where one is appointed. As indicated in the Higher Degrees Guide, a file containing the content of all internet references must be made available to the supervisor when the thesis is submitted for examination.

Candidates give notice in writing (at least two months in advance) to the Registrar of their intention to submit the thesis for examination. The notice is submitted vis ROSS.

The thesis is submitted with the approval of the supervisor.

---

■ LIST OF DOCUMENTS PROVIDED

In addition to this COURSE OUTLINE and the RESOURCE KIT, the following documents are provided. The referencing guidelines in the Resource Kit must be consulted when writing each assignment and the thesis. All of the documents provided are essential reading and must be studied carefully.

FOR THE ASSIGNMENTS

- nine modules, with the assignment questions on the last page;
- a document – Approach to Answering Assignments;
- a document – Academic Writing;
- solutions to assignments 1 – 8;
- for assignment 9:
  - * General Research Methodology Module
  - * Academic Writing (also relevant for assignments 1 – 8)
  - * Writing the Research Methodology Chapter.

FOR THE THESIS

- the Higher Degrees Guide;
- a document – The Topic Statement; and
- the Research Proposal Template.

---

■ ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Applicants should be in possession of a suitable honour's degree, which must include at least one full-year postgraduate course in South African taxation, for which a mark of at least 65% is required.

It is possible to apply for an ad eundem gradum admission where an applicant does not comply with the above requirements, but admission is subject to the recommendation of the Board of the Faculty of Commerce and the approval of Senate.

Applicants who have obtained the Postgraduate Diploma in Taxation at Rhodes University can be admitted to the programme, provided they obtain an average mark of 65% for the course and have presented a quality research essay as part of the diploma course, for which a mark of at least 65% is obtained. These candidates are granted credits for certain assignments, based on the diploma course, and have to submit assignments on modules 7 to 9, together with two additional assignments to be made available.

Acceptance as a candidate is at the discretion of the Department of Accounting and subject to the availability of suitably qualified supervision staff.

The application form and other administrative information is available from: academicadmin@ru.ac.za

---

■ YOUR CONTACT DETAILS

It is important that the Department and the Registrar can contact you by post, email, and telephone, so please make sure that we have all the details and keep them up to date.

Please do not hesitate to consult us at any time on any matters related to your studies. We wish you success in your studies, and we hope that the following quotation will sum up your experience of the programme!

“I learned very early the difference between knowing the name of something and knowing something.”
— Richard P. Feynman<sup>1</sup>

Professor EM Stack
Mr R Poole
Mr E Horn
Mr S Mabaso

January 2022

---

<sup>1</sup> Daily Maverick, Wednesday, 6 February 2019.