

Siyakhana@Makana

In an effort to support student organisations (societies, residences, other student groups and sports clubs) to better understand community development processes and the role of volunteers in supporting community based organisations, in 2015 RUCE introduced a programme called Siyakhana@Makana. In this exciting, creative, and challenging learning experience, participants in Siyakhana@Makana will work closely together for 9 weeks. Siyakhana@Makana is a project planning process, which seeks to support students who seek to build meaningful relationships with community organisations while working towards a shared co-created project. Working with a select group of dedicated student organisations, community organisations, and independent student teams, Siyakhana@Makana groups will co-create a project based on shared goals and interests from start to finish.
