

Training of Trainers Open Access, Online Course

The Amanzi for Food team is excited to announce the launch of the Amanzi for Food, On-line , open Access, Training of Trainers course.

<https://amanziforfood.co.za/courses/online-training-of-trainers-course/>

This course is designed for extension services, farmers, NGOs, community organizations, Agricultural colleges, Universities and training institutes to integrate knowledge of rainwater harvesting and conservation practices into the curricula, training programs, extension services and learning networks.

The Covid- 19 pandemic has left us more vulnerable to challenges such as food security and joblessness. Through learning about rainwater harvesting and how to use water conservatively, we can encourage the development of productive gardens and farm lands.

This online course is available to everyone to explore the interesting content and learning resources as well as to register for formal certification.

Registration for the first set of formal course participants will close 25 February 2021 with an exciting program of webinars starting the 1 March 2021.
