1. INTRODUCTION

Overview

The Law of Contract A is a self-standing semester course that counts as a credit in the Faculty of Law in the LLB2, as well as comprising one of the six component courses in the Legal Theory 3 major in the undergraduate degrees offered by the Faculties of Humanities, Science and Commerce. Students who pass the Law of Contract A as part of the Legal Theory major are exempted from the course in the LLB curriculum.

The purpose of the course is to provide insight into the nature and function of the law of contract in South Africa. More particularly:

- to provide the students with an understanding of the historical development of the uniquely South African law of contract from its Roman, Roman-Dutch and English roots.
- to provide the students with a thorough understanding of the essential elements of a valid contract in South African law.
- to assist students in being able to identify and solve authentic legal problems with regard to the negotiation and creation of contracts.
- to familiarise students with legal concepts and terminology commonly encountered in the law of contract.
- to assist students in extracting principles from law reports and other source material.

Credit Value

10 Credits

Assumptions of Prior Learning

When entering the course, students need to:

- be capable of writing and communicating in coherent English.
- know how and where to access resources such as textbooks, law reports and statutes in the Law Library.
- have a working knowledge of basic legal concepts and terminology.
be capable of independent learning.
read, analyse and extract principles from law reports and other source material.
understand the system of judicial precedent, and the important role precedent plays in private law.
have an understanding of legal problem-solving techniques and how to apply these to solve legal problems.
have a working knowledge of legal referencing conventions, and to be able to apply these to their written work.
have a basic understanding of constitutional principles and how these principles impact on private law issues.

2. OUTCOMES

Critical Outcomes
Students will be able to:
(a) identify and solve practical legal problems.
(b) organise and manage themselves and their work load.
(c) collect, analyse and evaluate information from the various sources of law, as well as information conveyed in the classroom environment.
(d) communicate effectively in class debate and written assignments.
(e) use technology in legal research.
(f) recognise problem-solving contexts involving the law of contract.

Intended Specific Outcomes
The Law of Contract A course is designed so that students successfully completing this course should be able to achieve the following outcomes. The student should be able to:
(a) Understand how the South African law of contract has developed from its Roman, Roman-Dutch and English roots into a constitutional era.
(b) Understand and explain the essential elements of a valid contract, and their various requirements.
(c) Understand and explain the sorts of legal issues that can affect the existence of the various contractual elements, and how the contractual relationship will be affected as a result.
(d) Apply the knowledge acquired during the course to solve practical problems with regard to the negotiation and creation of a contract.

3. TEACHING METHODS
The course will be presented by means of viva voce lectures. There will be a hand-out for the course which details the prescribed and recommended reading. Students will be expected to review such prescribed and recommended reading for each lecture, in advance of such lecture. The handout should be supplemented with the student's own notes of the prescribed and recommended reading and with notes taken during lectures.

The substantive law will generally be discussed during lectures. Leading precedents from the case law will also be analysed and, where applicable, the views of leading academic commentators will be considered. Students must during lectures be sufficiently prepared to participate in discussions on the case law and to consider practical issues.

It is important to bear in mind that, at tertiary level, students are ultimately responsible for the advancement of their own learning.

There is a prescribed textbook for the course.

Lectures are compulsory.

The normal Faculty regulations concerning lecture attendance and DP certificates apply.

4. TUTORIALS

Voluntary supplemental tutorials are offered on a rotational basis in conjunction with the other Legal Theory Three courses.

Problem solving will be a focus of these tutorial sessions.

5. BASIC COURSE CONTENT (see course material for details)

(a) An introduction to the development of the South African Law of Contract.
(b) The Elements of a Valid Contract:
   • Capacity
   • Consensus
     - Offer and Acceptance
     - Documents & Ticket Cases; Rectification
     - Improperly obtained consensus (Misrepresentation; Duress; Undue Influence; Bribery; fair dealing under the Consumer Protection Act)
   • Legality
     - General principles of public policy and legality
     - The impact of the Constitution on contract law
     - Specific topics on legality (contingency fee agreements; covenants in restraint of trade)
   • Possibility of performance
   • Formalities
(c) Parties to contracts

The implications of legislation such as the Consumer Protection Act will be considered where considered relevant throughout the course.
6. RESOURCES

The core reading and study material for this course are the prescribed textbook and leading judgments on certain aspects of the law of contract. The judgments are in the law reports which are accessible in the Law Library in paper and electronic form. For a full list of cases, see the Course Outline for Students, 2019.

Other texts that could be consulted are:

Students are advised to use these resources in the course of their studies. Students are also encouraged to browse through the shelves in the library or the Faculty's electronic page and to familiarise themselves with the Faculty's holdings. This will stand them in good stead when research is undertaken for assignments.

Assessment Strategy

The final mark for the course is comprised of the following components:

- Examination: 70 marks
- Class work: 30 marks
- Total: 100 marks

Tests

There is one test for this course, which is written mid-way through the course. The test will be out of 12 marks, and students have 3 minutes reading time, and 30 minutes in which to complete the test. The test will contain questions equivalent to that which may be found in the June examination, and will require the students to apply their knowledge to solve a legal problem. The test counts 40% (12 marks) of the class-mark component of the course. The test is compulsory.

Assignments

There is one major assignment for this course, which is submitted towards the end of the second term. The assignment is an authentic one, and will require the students to write a mock judgment: the student must imagine that he or she is a judge who has to resolve a contractual dispute brought before his or her court. The assignment should be approximately 2500 words in length, and will have to be thoroughly researched, and correctly referenced and presented. The assignment counts 60% (18 marks) of the class mark component of the course. The assignment is compulsory.

Examination

One two-hour paper will be written in June. The examination will be out of 70 marks. All questions are compulsory. The questions will require students both to be able to explain legal rules and principles in a theoretical sense, to write case notes on leading precedents, as well as to apply their knowledge to solving practical problems in authentic contexts. The examination is compulsory. An external examiner assesses the quality of both the examination paper and the students' answers.

7. EVALUATION

This course is evaluated on a cyclical basis, and is also evaluated as part of the global Legal Theory Three evaluation at the end of the academic year.
