- 5.2.3 Once the relevant committee has approved the minutes of that particular meeting, the recording will be destroyed by the secretariat.
- 5.2.4 Rhodes University affirms that only the written and confirmed minutes of a meeting serve as the official record of the meeting.
- 5.2.5 Should the written minutes be challenged and therefore not confirmed, only the chairperson of the committee and the registrar have the right to access recordings for clarification.
- 5.2.6 Copies of the recording may not be made.

5.3 PREPARATION OF MINUTES

- 5.3.1 The draft minutes of any official university meeting must be watermarked as draft and checked by the chairperson. Once so checked, the minutes are to be marked as unconfirmed via watermark.
- 5.3.2 The unconfirmed minutes of ordinary meetings must normally be received by the members not more than fourteen days after the day upon which such ordinary meeting is completed.
- 5.3.3 If any member wishes to raise any objection to the minutes, he or she must raise the objection at the next ordinary meeting. No motion or discussion shall be allowed upon minutes except as to their accuracy. Members are permitted to email their concerns in respect of the accuracy of a minute to the secretariat prior to the next meeting. The secretariat will bring these concerns to the meeting.

5.4 CONFIRMATION OF MINUTES

- 5.4.1 The first act of each ordinary meeting (except Senate), after being constituted, shall be to confirm, by a proposer and a seconder, the minutes of the last preceding ordinary meeting and of any special meetings held subsequently thereto.
- 5.3.2 All objections to the minutes must be raised and decided before such confirmation. No motion or discussion shall be allowed upon minutes except as to their accuracy.

5.5 SPEAKING TO MOTIONS

A member may not, without the permission of the chairperson, speak more than once on any motion or amendment thereof, but the mover of the motion or amendment may reply.

5.6 WITHDRAWAL OF MOTION

A motion or amendment must be seconded, and, if so directed by the chairperson, be in writing, and no motion or amendment may be withdrawn without the consent of the proposer, the seconder and the meeting.

5.7 MOTIONS TO RESCIND/AMEND RESOLUTIONS

Notice of any motion to make, amend or rescind a statute or institutional rule, or to amend or rescind a previous resolution of the meeting, shall be given at the meeting previous to that at which it is to be moved; provided that in the case of senate, no such notice shall be required if the proposal to make, amend or rescind a previous resolution of the senate, has been made by a committee of the senate, and if the minutes of the meeting of the committee at which the proposal was made have been issued in time to have been received by the members of senate at least two days before the meeting at which it is to be discussed.

5.8 VOTING

5.9 RULINGS OF CHAIRPERSON

The ruling of the chairperson on any question of order or procedure shall be binding unless immediately challenged by a member, in which case it shall be submitted without discussion to the meeting, whose decision shall be final.

5.10 UNDISCLOSED BUSINESS

- 5.10.1 When an item of business not disclosed on the written notice of an ordinary meeting is introduced, voting on such item shall not take place until the lapse of one hour after its introduction, unless the meeting agrees by recorded vote to the contrary.
- 5.10.2 At a special meeting, no business other than that of which notice has been given shall be transacted at such a meeting, unless agreed to by the meeting.

5.11 WAIVER OF RULES

The meeting may, by a vote of two thirds of the members present at any duly constituted meeting, approve of an exception to any of the rules pertaining to meeting procedures.

5.12 CONFIDENTIALITY

Minutes may contain restricted sections in which confidential resolutions, such as those relating to individual students, are recorded.

5.13 CONDUCT OF MEETINGS

- 5.13.1 Any member may bring any matter before a meeting by submitting a written motion to the registrar at least seven days before the meeting at which it is to be discussed.
- 5.13.2 Whenever an amendment is duly moved and seconded, that amendment, or the latest, if several amendments are moved and seconded, must first be voted on. If there is a majority in favour of the amendment, the original motion is lost. The amendment then becomes the substantive motion. An amendment to this amended version of the original (now the substantive motion) may be moved. Any amendment to the original motion not yet voted on which can, with the necessary changes, be treated as an amendment to the now substantive motion is voted on in order of priority, the later preceding the earlier. When no further amendment is offered to an amended motion, the amended motion, which has become the substantive motion, is voted on as the substantive motion in order to discover whether a majority prefer it to the status quo.
- 5.13.3 Voting shall take place by a show of hands, unless a member requests, or the chairperson directs, that a ballot shall be taken.
- 5.13.4 Members shall address the chairperson and, in the case of senate, remain standing while speaking, and shall not, without the permission of the chairperson, speak for more than seven consecutive minutes.
- 5.13.5 If two or more members simultaneously address the chairperson, the chairperson shall decide the order of precedence.
- 5.13.6 All questions put to the meeting by members of the meeting must be put through the chairperson who may decline to put any questions.
- 5.13.7 No decision of a meeting shall be debated within six months of such decision being taken, except with the permission of two thirds of the members of the meeting present at the time of voting, or the majority of the total membership of the body, whichever is the greater.

5.13.8 It shall be open for any member of a meeting to move that the subject under discussion shall be dealt with in committee, and, if seconded, such motion shall be put without further discussion. If the matter is dealt with in committee, the provisions of Rule 5.7 above shall not apply.

5.13.9 Whenever in the opinion of any member any matter has been sufficiently discussed that member may:

i. move that the question be now put; or

ii. move that the meeting proceed to the next item of business on the agenda.

Either motion, if seconded, shall be put to the vote without further discussion or amendment.

If the latter motion is carried, the matter under discussion shall not be further discussed at that meeting, and may not be raised again at any subsequent meeting except by way of a fresh notice of motion.

6. OFFICE OF THE OMBUD

6.1 The office of an ombudsman (“the office”) has been created to assist persons or entities of the University (i.e. current and former students and their parents, academic, administrative and support staff, service providers and visitors) to resolve problems that remain unresolved, despite such problem having been through all the University’s prescribed processes.

6.2 The University shall provide contact details, including an address, to which complaints, problems or concerns shall be referred to, for the attention of the ombudsman.

6.3 The Office has not been established to replace any of the University’s existing structures and any person or entity with a problem must first refer any such problem to the University’s existing structures before referring such a problem to the ombudsman.

6.7 The Office shall:

6.7.1 analyse and investigate the complaint;

6.7.2 invite the implicated person or structure to respond to the complaint (without compromising confidentiality and without adjudicating the complaint);

6.7.3 identify the issues;

6.7.4 provide advice and guidance on the manner in which to solve problems arising from or related to the University’s rules, policies, practices and procedures;

6.7.5 mediate in search of a solution, and

6.7.6 make written recommendations;

6.8 The Office has the power to consider the University’s rules, policies, practices and procedures and express an opinion thereon, with a view to advise the University administrators;

6.9 The Office must give written reasons to a complainant in the event of declining to assist the complainant;

6.10 The Office shall not:

6.10.1 make decisions for or on behalf of the University;

PRINCIPLES GOVERNING THIS PROTOCOL

OVERVIEW
The following principles underpin this protocol:
The centrality of the academic project: Rhodes University prides itself on the centrality of the academic project at this institution and the accountability of the dean to their Faculty, is seen as critical to this. Deans are accountable to their Faculties for strategic leadership of the Faculty, efficient oversight of the administration of Faculty business, oversight of academic standards within the faculty, the intellectual health, growth and reputation of the Faculty, alignment of Faculty objectives with broader institutional objectives, and exercising the powers vested in the office of dean on behalf of the Faculty as outlined in the Institutional Rules. deans report operationally to the vice chancellor or a DVC designated by the vice chancellor for institutional accountability and support, personal development, performance and conduct, compliance and governance aspects of the role.
Academic leadership: The dean of a Faculty is, first and foremost, an academic leader and as the leader of the Faculty is entrusted with a central role in facilitating a creative environment for the promotion of teaching and learning, research and community engagement.

Faculty agency: Faculties exhibit agency by electing a dean from a pool of candidates, whom Faculty considers to be an appropriate scholarly leader for the context. Faculty agency is important because it is active engagement and investment by individual Faculty members which drives the Academic Project. The deans are elected and as such, are accountable in a system of academic governance characterised by democratically established Faculty committees. This stands in contrast to so-called executive dean positions whereby persons occupying these positions are identified by Selection Committees only and which thereby deny Faculty the opportunity to be agentive in the process.

Transformation: The process will emphasise transformation, both in term of complying with the Employment Equity Act, No. 55 of 1998 (as amended) and with the relevant university policies and strategies in this regard, and in terms of driving transformation of the academic project within the Faculty and wider university.

Fair process and due diligence: The election process must be fair and transparent and informed by Institutional policies and strategies, and Faculty imperatives. These imperatives include: the role of the dean within Rhodes University (see role profile for this purpose); the needs of the Faculty as regards the academic project; the strategic imperatives of the University related to the academic project and its impact on the Faculty; as well as Institutional and Faculty equity and transformation goals and imperatives.

Collegiality: The process should be consultative and participatory.

Equity: The process will be fair in its treatment of internal and external applicants/candidates who will be treated as equals throughout the process.

Introduction

The dean is elected by the Faculty. This election process is overseen by the registrar as a neutral representative of the Institution, with involvement by the Director: HR where a Faculty has opted to pursue an external candidate. The Faculty's decision as regards the choice of dean is a recommendation which requires approval by Senate and Council.

deans are normally appointed for a period of five years. The election process is normally completed by 1 January in the year in which the dean takes office, usually on 1 July. The period of appointment is usually from 1 July to 30 June such that the incoming dean ideally has a period of orientation and settling down and is involved in planning for the next academic year.

Where deans are appointed in exceptional circumstances through nomination by the vice chancellor after consultation with the Faculty, the appointment shall not normally exceed two years.

Overview of the process to be followed approximately nine months prior to the end of a Dean's Term of Office (details are in the sections below):

- The registrar initiates the process by circular to Members of Faculty.

- The Faculty elects a Faculty Election Team (FET) to facilitate the process.
- The FET meets with Faculty and compiles a brief leadership succession document for the Faculty, which considers candidates already in the Faculty for suitability and willingness in the immediate and longer term with respect to scholarly and administrative leadership track record, people skills, and the transformation needs of the faculty and the university.
- The FET leads a process which decides whether the Faculty will follow an internal or an external process. An external search process shall be an exceptional circumstance, and subject to the resource constraints of the university.
- Should the FET's work conclude that an external process is in the interest of the Faculty, it engages with the vice chancellor about the capacity of the University to fund an external candidate as a supernumerary position.
- Members of Faculty vote on the candidates before them.
- In the case of an external process, a recruitment and selection process must also be completed in the normal way before the recommendation of both the Faculty and the selection committee is presented to Senate (the process is detailed in section 4).
- The selected candidate is forwarded to Senate as a recommendation for appointment.

The following chart provides a visual representation of the process to be followed.

PROCEDURES FOR IMPLEMENTING THIS PROTOCOL

(Actions and processes by which the objectives of the protocol will be achieved.)

Implementation Procedure 1: Constituting a Faculty Election Team (FET)

1 Constituting a Faculty Election Team (FET)

- 1.1 At least nine months prior to the end of the current dean's term of office, the registrar will place on the Faculty agenda (a normal Faculty meeting, involving the current dean), an item to start the process for electing a dean and shall administer the process described in 1.2 and 1.3 below;
- 1.2 The Faculty shall elect a FET. This shall take place as follows:
 - 1.2.1 Members of the Faculty shall nominate academics of the Faculty for the FET;
 - 1.2.2 The FET shall include no fewer than 4 members and no more than 5 members;
 - 1.2.3 If the FET as elected has fewer than 4 members then the FET shall co-opt members from senior permanent academic university staff outside the Faculty;
 - 1.2.4 The FET should normally include at least three senior academics in the Faculty. The current dean or any person standing for election to the deanship will not be eligible for the FET;
 - 1.2.5 Members of the Faculty shall be eligible to vote for each member of the FET;
 - 1.2.6 Each member of this team shall be identified by a simple majority vote of those at the meeting;
 - 1.2.7 The group will elect a Chairperson from their midst;
 - 1.2.8 Members of the FET retain their individual rights as members of Faculty;
 - 1.2.9 For all meetings of the FET, a report shall be tabled at the following Faculty meeting.
- 1.3 The roles of the FET are as follows:
 - To administer the process of electing a new dean as outlined in 1.3.1 - 2.4 below;
 - To ensure that due process is followed as per this protocol;
 - To ensure that the principles underlying this protocol are adhered to.

1.3.1 Information gathering and sharing:

The FET will be responsible for ensuring that all the necessary documents [for example: Institutional development plan (IDP), IDP linked Faculty operational plan, Faculty management dashboard (past three-year student and staff enrolment trend as well as research trend,) Institutional Transformation Plan, Faculty transformation plan, Faculty enrolment plan, the dean's role profile, conditions of service of deans and others] are available on a relevant electronic platform. This platform will need to be accessible to all applicants and members of Faculty.

The FET may consult with the current dean as necessary but the dean will play no part in decision-making. Where the current dean is not standing for re-election, the dean may be asked to prepare a written report, a critical reflection on experiences as dean.

The FET is advised to consult more widely within the University, including the vice chancellor's office, the Directors of Human Resources, Equity and Institutional Culture and Institutional Planning Unit. While the FET may draw on external advice, external advisors are not members of the FET. All external advice solicited shall be minuted.

The registrar's office will within reason provide administrative assistance in supporting the FET (e.g. collection of information required, putting information on relevant electronic platforms and organisation of meetings).

1.3.2 The FET is responsible for managing the time line, and approaching the vice chancellor should an extension of term or ad-hoc appointment be needed in terms of section 9.

It should be noted that it is NOT a good idea for a new Faculty dean to take office in January immediately before orientation and registration weeks commence for a new academic year.

Implementation Procedure 2: Facilitation of Faculty workshop:

2.1 Facilitation of Faculty workshop

The FET shall arrange and chair a workshop at which:

- 2.1.1 the needs of the Faculty and the Institution as they relate to the Faculty are identified and discussed;
- 2.1.2 the role of the dean, process of appointing the dean, and relevant conditions of service are understood;
- 2.1.3 the specifics of the process are outlined;
- 2.1.4 all members of Faculty have an opportunity to participate in the discussion so that a range of voices is heard;
- 2.1.5 the current dean, if available for re-election, will not participate as deans already have access to this information. This also avoids any perceptions or concerns that the current dean may unduly influence the discussion.

2.2 The FET shall ensure that a brief minute of the workshop is made available on the relevant electronic platform as soon as possible after the workshop.

2.3 The FET shall draw on the feedback from the workshop to:

- 2.3.1 Compile a short leadership succession document for the faculty.
- 2.3.2 Identify under-represented designated groups for the position.
- 2.3.3 Obtain a mandate to search outside of the Faculty for a dean if that is appropriate to the context of the Faculty.

2.4 Leadership succession document

- 2.4.1. The FET shall compile a short leadership succession document for the Faculty, which considers candidates already in the faculty for suitability and willingness in the immediate and longer term with respect to scholarly and administrative leadership track record, people skills, and the transformation needs of the faculty and the university. In compiling this document, may consult the executive leadership of the university. The result of this process shall be reported in writing by the FET to the vice chancellor, outlining the basis for the decisions taken.

- 2.4.2. Should the FET's succession document conclude that there is no current candidate suitable or willing to take on the role of dean with the qualities listed, and no chance of a suitably qualified and/or willing candidate from a designated group emerging within the current or the next cycle of election of a dean as a possibility for the Faculty to consider, then it shall engage with the vice chancellor for permission to conduct an external Search and Selection process for a dean. The vice chancellor, after consultation with the appropriate resource committees of the university (currently the Vacancy Committee) will indicate to the FET whether or not the resources of the university will be able to cater for an external appointment to the Faculty. If the decision is to create an additional post for the attraction of an external dean, the Director of HR will set an appointment process in motion to advertise the 5-year dean's position together with an academic post that meets the constraints outlined in section 4. The FET will be part of a selection committee, which will be constituted in the normal way, as outlined by the Recruitment and Selection Policy. A short-listed candidate must go through the same approval stages of Faculty presentation and voting as an internal candidate for dean, as well as the normal Recruitment and Selection processes of the appointment of a Professor or Associate Professor.
- 2.4.3. Depending on the outcome of the engagement with the vice chancellor, the Chair of the FET either requests the registrar to call for formal internal applications/nominations, or the Director: HR to proceed with a preapproved external advertising process.

Implementation Procedure 3: Process of Electing a Dean (applicable to internal and external processes)

3 Nomination/Application Process

Prospective candidates for the deanship are identified by a process of nomination or application. All nominees/applicants must submit the relevant documentation as per Appendix 1. In particular, the processes of nomination/application or external recruitment and selection are intended as a means to facilitate the process by identifying and encouraging suitably qualified individuals to apply. Nominated or headhunted candidates/applicants are conferred no advantage in the subsequent process.

- 3.1 The registrar shall call for nominations/applications from Faculty members in the case of an internal process;
- 3.2 The registrar shall receive the details of a shortlisted candidate or candidates from an appropriately constituted Selection Committee in the case of an external process;
- 3.3 A variety of methods shall be used to encourage suitably qualified individuals to apply for the position;
- 3.4 In the case of an internal election, the process will be as follows:
 - 3.4.1 Any member of the Faculty may be invited to make a nomination or support a nominee from within the Faculty;
 - 3.4.2 In the case of the Faculty of Law, Pharmacy and Education, a nomination shall require the support of the nominator as well as the support of four (4) Faculty members in the relevant Faculty and the acceptance of the nomination by the nominee;
 - 3.4.3 In the case of the Faculties of Commerce, Humanities and Science, a nomination shall require the support of the nominator as well as the support of the lesser of 10% or ten (10) Faculty members in the relevant Faculty and the acceptance of the nomination by the nominee;
 - 3.4.4 The FET shall approach nominees and invite them to submit the documents to accompany acceptance of nomination as indicated in Appendix 1.
 - 3.4.5 Should a candidate clearly not meet the criteria for the role, the FET should meet with nominators to explain this, and should not submit the nominee to the process.

Implementation Procedure 4: Criteria for Recruitment and Selection of an External Dean

4 Criteria

An external Recruitment and Selection process should only be used when the primary intention of the Faculty is to attract a candidate from a Designated Group.

- 4.1 The primary intention of advertising the post externally must be to attract applications from Designated Groups as defined in the Employment Equity Act;
- 4.2 Candidates must have all of the leadership, scholarly, teaching and learning experience, and people skills as envisaged for an effective Faculty dean (also refer to Appendix 1).
- 4.3 The candidate recommended to Senate must, in addition, have a currently active scholarly track record in a field that is already directly offered by the university, such that they may contribute productively to the scholarship of an existing entity of the university during their tenure as dean, and move into a productive academic role in that entity should they step down as dean before they retire from the university.
- 4.4 An external candidate, once shortlisted, will follow the same presentation and election process in the Faculty as an internal candidate.
- 4.5 An external candidate will, in addition, follow a Recruitment and Selection process as a professor or associate professor of an existing entity within the university, and both the Faculty and the Selection Committee's recommendation will serve before Senate simultaneously. The head of the entity to which the dean will be attached will be part of the selection process, and the outcome of the Faculty vote (including the percentage poll) will be made known to the selection committee
- 4.6 A successful external candidate will receive a contract for a permanent academic appointment attached to an existing entity within the university, with a fixed period secondment into the dean's position.

Implementation Procedure 5: Presentations to Faculty

5 Presentations to Faculty

- 5.1 Candidates do not participate in the process except as candidates;
- 5.2 The FET shall ensure that the following documentation, which was provided by the candidates as part of the application process, will be made available to Faculty:
 - 5.2.1 Full curriculum vitae;
 - 5.2.2 A detailed letter of motivation;
 - 5.2.3 A written vision for the Faculty. The length of this can be prescribed by the Faculty.
- 5.3 The registrar shall announce a special Faculty Board meeting where the candidates will present a vision for the Faculty and answer questions from the Faculty related to the vision and the requirements of the role of dean;
- 5.4 This meeting shall be chaired by the Chair of the Faculty Election Team and:
 - 5.4.1 the FET members shall attend this meeting;
 - 5.4.2 the registrar or nominee shall be in attendance at this meeting to ensure that all legal and good governance requirements related to this process are met and to advise the Faculty as required;
 - 5.4.3 each candidate is normally given 15 minutes to make a brief presentation of their vision to the Faculty;
 - 5.4.4 a question and answer session related to the vision follows, as well as other questions to assess the individual's suitability as dean; the question and answer session should last approximately 45 minutes for each candidate.

Implementation Procedure 6: Voting process

6 Voting Process

- 6.1 The registrar will administer and manage the election process. The successful candidate requires the support of an absolute majority (50% + 1) of the votes cast by members of the Faculty Board, provided that a percentage poll equalling at least the quorum of 25% of Faculty Board members is met;
- 6.2 Voting will take place via the Instant-Runoff Voting (IRV) system (see Appendix 2). This will ensure that the dean is elected by an absolute majority of those who would have cast the vote, and that voting can take place during a single vote to avoid inefficiency. "Not appointable" will be included as an option;
- 6.3 The chairperson of the FET shall normally refrain from voting and only use their vote as a tiebreaker;
- 6.4 The voting system used should allow members of the Faculty Board who are not physically present to cast their votes (e.g. electronic voting);

6.5 The name of the recommended candidate will be forwarded to Senate as a recommendation of the Faculty. The name of the recommended candidate will be announced to Faculty by the registrar, noting that approval is required from Senate.

Implementation Procedure 7: Ratification Process

7 Ratification Process

The registrar will ensure that the relevant Faculty documentation (including the name, qualifications, and track record of the elected candidate, the percentage poll, and any other information pertinent to the process) and recommendation (for an external candidate, the recommendation of the Selection Committee as well) is put before Senate for approval and then before Council for approval. Should either of these governance bodies not approve the recommendation, its duty is to refer the matter back.

Implementation Procedure 8: Institutional Contract with the New Dean

8 Institutional Contract with the New Dean

Following the approval of the Faculty's (and in the case of an external candidate the Selection Committee's) recommendation, the Director: HR will, on behalf of the Institution, issue a letter of contract subject to the conditions of service that prevail for that appointment.

Implementation Procedure 9: Procedure to follow in the event of an ad hoc appointment, emergency appointment, or extension of the term of a Dean

9 In the event that the process of appointing a dean is delayed for whatever reason and/or that the contract of the incumbent dean expires through effluxion of time or that the contract of the incumbent dean is terminated through disciplinary action, resignation or other means, or that contestations within faculties or other conditions make it unviable to hold a normal election, or that the term of office of a dean needs to be extended so as to afford a degree of continuity in the makeup across the institution of Faculty deans then:

- 9.1 The vice chancellor may, after consultation with a Faculty, nominate a dean or Acting dean for approval by Senate and Council;
- 9.2 Where a dean or Acting dean is appointed in exceptional circumstances, the period of appointment shall not normally exceed two years.
- 9.3 In making the nomination to Senate and Council, the vice chancellor shall explain the circumstances relating to the ad hoc appointment of a dean.
- 9.4 In such circumstances the dean will reasonably meet the requirements for appointment, and may come from outside of the Faculty.

Implementation Procedure 10: Procedure to follow in the event that an incumbent Dean wishes to stand for a second or subsequent term

10 Procedure to follow in the event that an incumbent Dean wishes to stand for a second or subsequent term

At the end of a dean's term of office, they may stand for re-election for a second or subsequent term.

- 10.1 An incumbent dean may stand for re-election as per this protocol;
- 10.2 In the case of full-time deans, if the dean was originally an internal candidate, they may already be on secondment from their Department. If this is the case, then a reasonable amount of time before applications are due, the incumbent may open a discussion with the vice chancellor, or a DVC designated by the vice chancellor, and the HOD of their academic department as to whether the post in the academic department will be reserved for them for a further term of five years. The matter must be settled and acknowledged in writing by the VC or a designated DVC before the application for re-appointment as dean is submitted.
 - 10.2.1 Such a post may be retained by the dean and backfilled by a contract appointee, at the discretion of the university in consultation with the academic department, provided that the dean has continued to raise the scholarly voice of the discipline at Rhodes through supervision, publication or other intellectual contributions that benefit the output and reputation of their home department. This discussion may be facilitated by the vice chancellor, or a deputy vice chancellor.
 - 10.2.2 If the dean is not actively contributing to the research and supervision outputs of their home department¹, and the academic department is of the view that the post needs to be filled by a full-time appointment, then the dean has the right to return to that post at the completion of their current term of office as dean².

Implementation Procedure 11: Continuity in the Institutional Leadership made up of the Faculty Deans

- 11 Given the critical institutional leadership role that the Faculty deans, as a body, play in the running of the university, it is desirable that the terms of deans in various faculties are staggered, and that a circumstance is avoided where more than half of the terms of office of Faculty deans fall vacant simultaneously.
 - 11.1 The vice chancellor may, after consultation with a Faculty so affected, approach Senate and Council to extend the term of a specific dean according to the procedure of section 9, so as to ensure a degree of continuity in the institutional academic leadership body.

² As a transition arrangement for Faculty Deans already in office on the date of approval of this protocol, the requirement for such a contributory arrangement to be in place for the current term in order to have their departmental tenure extended will not apply, but will apply to them for future terms of office should they stand for re-election.

Appendix 1: Candidate minimum requirements and suitability

Minimum requirements and suitability

Minimum requirements typically include, but are not limited to the following. Candidates must:

- Meet the requirements at least at the level of Associate Professor in terms of the University's criteria for promotion;
- Have a Doctoral qualification;
- Have a proven scholarly track record;
- Demonstrate clear evidence of leadership capacity;
- Have been involved in University Committees;
- Demonstrate clear evidence of an ability to initiate and run an academic project at a senior level.
- Have a track record of integrity and commitment to good governance and ethical leadership;
- Have a demonstrable record of leading the transformation of the curriculum (in the broad sense), and of departmental cultures and staff structures.
- Typically, have at least 10 years working experience as an academic and/or researcher and/or relevant profession.

In addition to the above, it is expected that the individual being considered as dean can demonstrate their suitability in most of the following areas:

- A research profile, preferably having led initiatives at the departmental/Faculty level and have demonstrated their ability to improve research within the department/Faculty.;
- Supervision of post-graduates and where appropriate at the doctoral level, with a keen understanding of the role of supervisor;
- Teaching at the undergraduate and post-graduate levels, preferably having led initiatives at the departmental/Faculty level;
- Having explored Community engagement (CE) linkages in terms of teaching and research;
- Leadership and management roles at the departmental or Faculty level. These roles can be formal (e.g. HoD, deputy HoD, Acting HoD, Head of research or teaching within the department) or informal roles (e.g. mentoring of young staff, research leadership roles, HoD or Faculty project);
- Co-ordination and administration at the departmental or Faculty level.

Additional reasonable Faculty specific criteria may be added at the time that a call for nominations is made by the registrar.

Documents to accompany acceptance of nomination / application

- Full curriculum vitae
- A detailed letter of motivation
- A written vision for the Faculty

Appendix 2: Voting process

Instant-Runoff Voting (IRV) shall be used during the voting procedure. IRV combines the principle of Faculty agency (such that the election produces a winner (recommended candidate) who has the approval of an absolute majority of faculty) with efficiency. When there are three or more candidates, a simple ballot will not always produce an absolute majority. The remedy for this is to have a ‘runoff’ (whereby the candidate with the least votes is eliminated and a second round of voting is held; this is repeated until an absolute majority is produced). However multiple ballots systems are inefficient (wasting voters’ time, and with possible adverse impacts on participation and hence the likelihood of a successful election). As the name suggests, IRV is able to achieve the assured majority of a runoff system, but with a single ballot.

Voting procedure: Each voter ranks all the candidate on the ballot in order of preference (1, 2, 3, etc., where 1 is the favoured candidate). The FET chair abstains from voting and only uses his/her vote to break a tie.

Enumeration procedure:

1. Enumerators count the '1's. If there an absolute majority then the recommended candidate is found.
2. If no majority is produced by the first count, the last placed candidate (with the least ‘1’s) is eliminated. If there is a tie for last, all of these candidates will be eliminated unless this would leave only one candidate. If this is the case, the ‘2’ (and if this is not decisive, then the ‘3’s, etc.) will be counted to break the tie for last.
3. The ballots for the eliminated candidate (or candidates) are then re-allocated according to the second choice (2) indicted on each ballot. (For example if ‘Dave’ votes for Thando (1), Sputnik (2), and Atul (3), and Thando is eliminated, Dave’s vote will count for Sputnik.)
4. The votes are then recounted. If there an absolute majority then the recommended candidate is found.

5. If not, steps 2 and 4 are repeated until a then the recommended candidate is found. Where necessary lower preference selections will be counted (For example if ‘Dave’ votes for Thando (1), Sputnik (2), and Atul (3), and Thando is eliminated in the first round and Sputnik in the second round, Dave’s vote will count for Utul in the third round).
6. If when only two candidates remain, there is a tie, the Chair casts the tie-breaking vote.

7. In the voting process for the election of Faculty deans, a vote of 0 will indicate that the candidate is not appointable, and candidates who have an absolute majority of “not appointable” votes will be deemed to be not appointable.

As per the resolution of Council at its meetings of September & November 2020, the processes of elections must advance the transformation of the deanery.

Annexure 2: Protocol for the Election of Deputy Deans

1. Introduction

The deputy dean is elected by the Faculty. This election process is managed by the registrar. The Faculty's decision as regards the choice of deputy dean is a recommendation which requires approval by Senate and Council.

The dean's term of office is five years. In contrast, the deputy deans are appointed for a period of two and half years. This allows for the possibility of multiple individuals having this leadership opportunity before the next dean's election and contributes to the continuity of the leadership of the Faculty. The term/s of the deputy dean/s are usually for 1 October to 31 March or 1 April to 30 September. The election process is normally completed by 1 June in the year in which the deputy dean takes office.

As the role of deputy dean is to partner with and support the dean, the election of the deputy dean will usually take place after the election of a dean.

Each Faculty shall usually have a deputy dean but in the Faculties of Humanities and Science, there may be up to two deputy deans.

2. Guiding principles

The following are guiding principles in the election of deputy deans:

- The deputy dean/s partner with and support the dean in the realisation of the vision of the Faculty and assist with some of the management and administrative work.
- The deputy dean's particular responsibilities and specific focus areas or portfolios may vary from Faculty to Faculty as the strategic work may be divided between the dean and deputy dean/s on the basis of individual strengths and experience.
- The deputy deans are elected and as such, are accountable in a system of academic governance characterised by democratically established faculty committees.
- The election process must be informed by institutional and Faculty imperatives. These imperatives include: the role of the dean and deputy dean (see role profile for deputy dean) within Rhodes University; the needs of the Faculty as regards the academic project; the strategic imperatives of the University related to the academic project and its impact on the Faculty; as well as institutional and faculty equity and transformation goals and imperatives.
- The process should be consultative and participatory.
- An expansive approach should be taken to the identification of candidates in line with the strategic imperatives of the University.

3. Support for Deans and determination of number of Deputy Deans

Individuals appointed into the Deputy Dean roles will be required to support the Dean as follows:

Faculty	Hours per week of support x 46 weeks of the year
Commerce	8
Education	5
Humanities	12
Law	5 (inclusive of the Deputy HoD role)
Pharmacy	5 (inclusive of the Deputy HoD role)
Science	12

In the case of the Faculties of Humanities and Science, the size of these Faculties impacts the extent of the work of the dean and deputy dean, with each dean requiring at least 12 hours per week of support from a deputy dean or deputy deans. From time to time, the deputy dean may also occupy the role of Head of Department. While it is important that the dean is given adequate support from the deputy deans, it is also important that executing the required responsibilities (and associated hours) is viable for the deputy dean.

The level of support (or relief from other duties) that can be provided to each deputy dean will be negotiated with the relevant parties prior to the nomination being accepted so that this acceptance of the nomination is informed by the support/relief that can be provided and what has been agreed. It is expected that some sort of support/relief will usually be required and provided. Should the Faculties of Humanities and Science each only have one deputy dean (where the person will be required to provide 12 hours of support to the relevant dean), a non-negotiable minimum level of support of at least 4 hours will be provided.

3.1 deputy dean roles in the Faculties of Humanities and Science

In the case of the Faculty of Humanities and Science, there shall be up to two deputy deans per Faculty, usually each contributing 6 hours each to this role per week (12 hours in total), unless changed by agreement. The deputy dean role can be held at the same time as the role of HoD. The new deputy dean will also be a full-time academic and may also have a strong research profile or heavier than usual teaching load. It is acknowledged that such an individual will not be able to sustain all of these roles if appointed as deputy dean. For each new appointment, an assessment of what is viable for the individual will need be made and a determination of where relief and support will be provided. Such an assessment will be undertaken by the dean, Head of Department where the new deputy dean is not the HoD and the Director: HR, after consultation with the prospective deputy dean. Such an assessment may include the provision of appropriate assistance e.g. teaching assistance to the Department to relieve the individual of some of his/her current teaching responsibilities (including supervision of post-graduates) or research assistance to the staff member to support ongoing research.

A few examples illustrate how this will take place.

Person has full teaching load, is an active researcher and is HoD. Current work hours at least 40 hours per week.		Person has full teaching load and is an active researcher and works at least a 40 hour week.

Person now appointed Deputy Dean which will involve a further 6 hours of responsibilities.
After assessment and consultation, it is agreed that the person needs to be relieved from 4 hours of teaching assistance for 35 weeks (total of 140 hours for the year). All academics in the department have a full workload (inclusive of teaching (this includes post-graduate supervision), research and administration) and therefore the Department needs additional capacity. An allocation of funds will be made to the Department for the appointment of teaching assistance.	After assessment and consultation, it is agreed that the person needs to be relieved from 4 hours of teaching assistance for 35 weeks (total of 140 hours for the year). However, not all individuals in the department are working at full capacity (inclusive of teaching, research and administration) and work is reallocated to others in the department. No additional support needs to be provided to the Department.	After assessment and consultation, it is agreed that the person will continue with their current teaching load. However, research assistance will be provided to support this person's research. An allocation of funds will be made to the individual.

3.2 Deputy Dean role in the case of the Faculty of Commerce

In the case of the Faculty of Commerce, there shall be one deputy dean who shall be responsible for providing 8 hours of deputy dean support. The deputy dean role can be held at the same time as the role of HoD. The new deputy dean will also be a full-time academic and may also have a strong research profile or heavier than usual teaching load. It is acknowledged that such an individual will not be able to sustain all of these roles in the future. For each new appointment, an assessment of what is viable for the individual will need to be determined and where additional relief may need to be provided. Such an assessment will take place by the dean, Head of Department where the new deputy dean is not the HoD and the Director: HR, after consultation with the person. Such an assessment may include the provision of appropriate assistance e.g. teaching assistance to the Department in order to relieve the individual of some of his/her current responsibilities. The examples in section 3.1 apply here except that the person works an additional 8 hours per week.

3.3 Deputy Dean role in the case of the Faculty of Education

In the case of the Faculty of Education, there shall be one deputy dean who shall be responsible for providing 5 hours of deputy dean support.

The deputy dean role can be held at the same time as the role of HoD. The new deputy dean will also be a full-time academic and may also have a strong research profile or heavier than usual teaching load. It is acknowledged that such an individual will not be able to sustain all of these roles in the future. For each new appointment, an assessment of what is viable for the individual will be made and where additional relief may need to be provided. Such an assessment will take place by the dean, Head of Department where the new deputy dean is not the HoD and the Director:

HR, after consultation with the person. Such an assessment may include the provision of appropriate assistance e.g. teaching assistance to the Department in order to relieve the individual of some of his/her current responsibilities. The examples cited in 3.1 apply here except that the person works an additional 5 hours per week.

3.4 Deputy dean in Faculty of Pharmacy

Currently, the dean in the Faculty of Pharmacy is also the HoD. The deputy dean is also the deputy HoD. Therefore two individuals occupy these four roles.

The hours required, for the deputy dean and the deputy HoD roles, is 5 hours per week. In this case, no support will usually be provided to the deputy dean.

3.5 Deputy Dean in the Faculty of Law

Currently, the dean in the Faculty of Law is also the HoD. The deputy dean is also the deputy HoD. Therefore two individuals occupy these four roles. The Faculty has indicated support for this model to continue.

The hours required, for the deputy dean and the deputy HoD roles, is 5 hours per week. In this case, no support will usually be provided to the deputy dean.

4. Remuneration and conditions of service

There is a separate document outlining these matters.

5. Process for electing a Deputy Dean

5.1 Usually six months prior to the end of the current deputy dean's term of office, the registrar will place on the faculty agenda (usually a normal Faculty meeting, involving the current deputy dean/s), an item to start the process for electing a deputy dean and shall administer the process described in 5.2 and 5.3 below;

Also at this meeting, and if relevant to the Faculty, a decision will be taken as regards the number of deputy deans for the Faculty.

Also at this meeting, each faculty needs to determine who will be responsible for guiding the election process.

In the case of the Faculties of Humanities, Commerce and Science, the faculty has two choices:

(a) That provided the new incoming dean has been identified or there is a current dean in office, s/he will facilitate the process;

OR

(b) The Faculty shall elect a group of three of its members, called the Faculty Election team to facilitate the process. Should this option be chosen, this shall take place as follows:

- Members of the Faculty present at the Faculty meeting shall nominate academics to sit on this Faculty Election team;
- Each member of Faculty present at the meeting shall have three votes. This Faculty Election team shall be identified by a majority vote of those at the meeting;
- This Faculty Election team should be established academics, recognised by their peers for their wisdom and who will not be standing for election. The incoming dean may be a member of this group. The current deputy dean may not be a member of this group, even if the person is not standing for re-election;
- The group will elect a Chair person from their midst.

In the case of the Faculties of Education, Law and Pharmacy, the faculty has two choices of facilitator:

(a) That provided the new incoming dean has been identified or that there is a current dean in office, that s/he facilitate the process;

OR

(b) The Faculty shall elect to have an external facilitator, external to the Faculty.

5.2 Information: The facilitator or Faculty Election team shall ensure that relevant information is made available to prospective nominees on a University website. This information will include the incoming dean's vision for the Faculty, Faculty Transformation Plan, Faculty Development Plan, University Transformation Report, Institutional Development Plan, the deputy dean's role profile, demographic profile of staff of Faculty and institution and conditions of service of deputy deans and process of assessment. The registrar when calling for nominations will refer the Faculty to the relevant website.

5.3 No identification of individuals: the facilitator or the Faculty Election team, as a collective, will not approach individuals and will not, as a group, make nominations. Each member of this team may, in their individual capacity, make or support a nomination. No external nominations are considered.

5.4 Once the information is read (as per 5.2 above), the registrar calls for internal nominations and will refer the Faculty to the relevant website with the information outlined in point 5.2 above.

A nomination shall require the support of the nominator as well as:

- (a) In the case of all the faculties, the support of four other staff in the relevant Faculty and the acceptance of the nomination by the nominee;
- (b) The nominator is responsible for ensuring that the nominee meets the education and experience requirements of the role profile for the role of deputy dean. This is critical as no shortlisting of all those nominated will take place;
- (c) Nominees are required to meet with the Director: HR, incoming dean and Head of Department to explore what appointment as deputy dean would imply for them personally in terms of their remuneration and their career trajectory as well as what support they may need.

- 5.5 The registrar announces the nominations;
- 5.6 The assessment process shall be:
 - (a) Nominees shall submit a full curriculum vitae as well as a detailed letter of motivation (no more than 2 pages) arguing for his/her suitability relative to the requirements for the role of deputy dean and in particular how s/he can support the vision and strategic objectives of the Faculty;
 - (b) This documentation is made available to each member of the Faculty.
- 5.7 Shortly after the documentation of nominees has been sent to each member of the Faculty, the registrar will administer and manage the election process. The successful candidate requires the support of a simple majority of the votes cast. Where more than one deputy dean is being elected, the successful individuals shall be the two people who receive the most votes among the votes cast.
- 5.8 The recommendation will be announced to Faculty, noting that approval is required from Senate and Council. The registrar will ensure that the relevant documentation and recommendation is put before Senate and Council for approval. It is Senate and Council's responsibility to ensure that the Faculty decision also supports the University's needs, interests and imperatives and that the recommended candidate meets the requirements of the deputy dean role profile. As such, Senate and/or Council can refer to the matter back to Faculty if the proposed candidate does not meet the profile requirements.

6. Institutional contract with the new Deputy Dean

Following the approval of the Faculty's recommendation, the Director: HR will on behalf of the institution, issue a letter of contract subject to the conditions of service that prevail for that appointment.

For further information refer to conditions of service for the deputy dean. This document includes how the remuneration for deputy deans is calculated.
